Cookies

A cookie is a small text file transmitted together with a website's pages and stored by the browser on your computer, tablet or phone. We use cookies to improve our services as you visit our websites, so that they are more user-friendly. For example, cookies allow you to remain logged on to a website and they remember your preferences, such as location and language settings. Cookies allow us to see how often our websites - and which pages - are viewed by visitors.

Some cookies may only be stored with your prior consent. This consent is not required if and insofar as it concerns technically required (functional) cookies and analytical cookies within the meaning of the applicable legislation, such as Section 11.7a(3) of the Dutch Telecommunications Act (Telecommunicatiewet) and the General Data Protection Regulation.

You can withdraw your cookie consent at any time by changing your browser settings. For more information on enabling, disabling and deleting cookies, go to Help in your browser.

Disclosing personal data to third parties

If you have not given your consent, the Association will only disclose your personal data to third parties if this is required to perform the Agreement between you and the Association, unless the Association is required by law to disclose your personal data to these third parties. The table at the beginning of this privacy statement lists the situations in which personal data are disclosed to third parties.

Access to and rectification and deletion of personal data

Your rights under the GDPR include the right to file requests with the Association to access your personal data (unless the Association is not required to provide such access under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)) and to have the Association rectify, delete or restrict your personal data. You must identify yourself when making such a request. If you want the Association to delete your data, the Association will inform all other organisations to which it has transferred the relevant data of this deletion.

Personal data security

The Association takes appropriate measures to protect your personal data from loss, unauthorised access, disclosure and unlawful processing. For example, we give access to your data on a "need to know" basis and we ensure that access to your data is protected and that our security measures are checked on a regular basis.

Minors

If you are a minor and want to become a member, you will have to give proof of your parent or guardian's explicit permission.

Links to other websites

The website may contain links to other websites. This Privacy Statement only applies to the Association's websites. Other websites may have their own privacy policies. The Association recommends that you always consult the privacy statements of such other websites before using them.

Changes to the privacy policy

The Association updates its privacy policy from time to time to keep it up to date. The websites will always include the most recent version of our Privacy Statement, so the Association encourages you to consult the Privacy Statement regularly. The Association will make every effort to notify you by email and through the websites if it makes any major changes.
